Bad news: you work for SWAG, in the change management team, and must implement SWAG's digital transformation, to turn this situation around.

So what?

- You are a member of the team, assigned to the transition towards the new garbage collection system

So what?

- You are a member of the team, assigned to the transition towards the new garbage collection system
- You enter the company when the changes have already been decided, so you are not to make decisions about the changes

So what?

- You are a member of the team, assigned to the transition towards the new garbage collection system
- You enter the company when the changes have already been decided, so you are not to make decisions about the changes
- Your job is to accompany, facilitate, make things happen in the smoothest possible way the changes that were decided
